The Mary J. Corey Journalism Internship

For rising college seniors or graduate students
Sponsored by The Baltimore Sun Media Group

2020 APPLICATION FORM

Mary J. Corey, senior vice president and director of content for The Sun, passed away of cancer in 2013. Mary grew up in Maryland and started her career at The Sun as a college intern. Upon graduation, she returned to The Sun as an editorial assistant and rose through the ranks as a reporter, editor and national correspondent before being named the first woman to lead The Sun newsroom. This internship was created to honor Mary’s own extraordinary career and the attention she gave to the careers of developing journalists. The person chosen for this internship will be selected on the basis of journalism qualifications and the degree to which the candidate exemplifies the work of Mary J. Corey. The internship includes a weekly salary of $575 and a $1,000 housing stipend.

Name: ____________________________ College: ____________________________

Current Address: ________________________________________________________

Telephone: ____________________________ E-mail: ____________________________

Home Address: ___________________________________________________________

Home Telephone: ____________________________ Expected Graduation Date: ______

Major: ____________________________ Second Major/Minor: ____________________________ GPA: ______

Area(s) of Interest (check all that apply):  _ News  _ Features  _ Sports  _ Multimedia  _ Design  _ Photo

I will have the use of an automobile during the internship:  _ Yes  _ No

I am available for an in-person interview in Baltimore, MD, or via Skype, during...

  Late November 2019?  _ Yes  _ No

  Early December 2019?  _ Yes  _ No

List any previous internships, giving the dates, name and address of the organization, its publication frequency, and the name and title of your supervisor.

_________________________________________________________________________

_________________________________________________________________________

How did you hear about this internship?  _ Adviser  _ Newspaper Ad  _ Posting

  _ Other: ____________________________
List experiences in collegiate journalism, including college-level courses completed or work on a student newspaper or other publication. (Be specific about courses taken, where and when taken and grade received, names and addresses of organizations that have published your work and the type of work you did.)

List three people who will provide a written professional reference for you. At least two references must be professionals who have supervised your work in the classroom or a newspaper or website. The third may be a general character reference. References may not be from a fellow student or relative. One reference from the editor of your college newspaper will be acceptable if the paper has no faculty adviser. The persons writing the references should email them directly to The Baltimore Sun to arrive by Monday, Oct. 15, 2019. You are responsible for ensuring references are emailed on time.

Attach a 500-word essay describing why you are qualified for the Mary J. Corey Internship. In this essay, describe the kinds of articles, projects or assignments you would like to pursue in this internship.

Attach three to five examples of your work. They may be photocopies that have been published in print or online links that contain your byline or other credit line.

INTERNSHIP APPLICATION PACKETS MAY BE SENT TO:

Sam Davis
The Baltimore Sun
sam.davis@baltsun.com

Application due: Oct. 15, 2019

Finalists will be notified after Nov. 15, 2019
The internship will be awarded during Dec. 2019

Baltimore Sun Media Group
Email: sam.davis@baltsun.com
Web: baltimoresun.com/internship